DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of Group II, Claims 9-14, in the reply filed on 09 November 2009 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a and e) as being anticipated by Kim et al. (US 2004/0187527).

4. Regarding Claim 9, Kim discloses a method for operating a laundry device comprising:

- a. Supplying washing water to a tub or drum having laundry introduced thereto [0053];
- b. Rotating the drum for a preset time period during washing [0063];

- c. Draining residual washing water while performing intermediate spinning of the drum at a high speed for making an intermediate extraction of water when the washing is finished [0064];
 - d. Performing a final spinning cycle when rinsing is finished [0065].
5. Kim further discloses that the rinsing and intermediate dewatering steps can be repeatedly carried out [0065] and that high-temperature, high-pressure steam may be sprayed into the tub or drum at various times (such as washing, rinsing, or during the water supply) for sterilizing the laundry [0066]. In the case of multiple intermediate rinsing and dewatering steps, a steam injection step during the multiple intermediate rinsing steps would read on the step of "supplying steam into the tub or drum having the laundry thereto to sterilize or sanitize the laundry when the intermediate spinning is finished," and a step of "rinsing at least once" would be performed after one of the intermediate steps of supplying steam during rinsing.
6. Regarding Claims 10 and 11, Kim discloses that the steam is supplied for sterilization [0066], thus it would be supplied long enough and at a high enough temperature to kill various microbes.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claims 12-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kim (US 2004/0187527) in view of Dober et al. (EP 1275767 A1).

9. Kim is relied upon as above.

10. Kim does not expressly disclose a step of supplying steam to the tub or drum to refreshen laundry after the final spinning cycle is finished or that this step is at a temperature higher than a temperature at which laundry is sterilized or that the step is performed long enough to refreshen the laundry.

11. Dober discloses a method for a washing machine where laundry is washed [0011], spin extracted [0012], then the laundry is steamed for 5-20 minutes to remove the creases resulting from the spin extraction [0015]-[0016], [0018]. The steaming step also results in sterilization of the laundry [0016]-[0017].

12. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Kim, as taught by Dober, and to include a refreshing step subsequent to the final spinning cycle in order to yield the predictable benefits of removing creases and further sterilizing the laundry.
